DANIELSON

Postoffice clerks encounter various curious and interesting things in the course of their labors and the most recent example is a group of postcards and letters bearing and entirely new vintage of stamps.

Assistant Postmaster Earl F. Winslow displayed Friday morning a series and miniature addressed to soap and premium concerns having headquarters in cities of the middle west. One of the letters, all of which were in home made envelopes, bore a fancy red square seal with a fleur-de-lis design instead of a regulation United States postage stamp. Another was stamped with a second class mail permit which evidently had been clipped from the wrapper sent out by large mail order house. Two others, in places of stamps, were labeled with the little yellow stamps that come on the wrapper of two cent cakes of soap.

Sharp-eyed clerks caught all of these suspiciously stamped letters and cards as they were being cancelled at the local office.

The writer of the cards, a girl, resident in Killbuck, is known and a warning to desist from a foolish and hazardous practice is to be given her. This is not the first occasion, however, when letters stamped have been held up at the Danielson office.

The annual large attendance for a high school reception and dance was at the State armory Friday evening when the last of the events of commencement week was held. Principal Ernest H. Warren of Killbuck High school and Mrs. Warren and President Lorimer Dixon of the R. H. S. Alumni Association and Mrs. Dixon were in the reception with the members of the senior class. The grand march was directed by Captain A. P. Woodward and led by Joseph Lee Bode, president of the senior class, and Miss Katherine McConry, with Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer Dixon as the second couple in line. The figures '21 were worked out by the couples, under the direction of Captain Woodward, at the end of the march.

Decorations at the hall this year were in the national colors and in green and gold, the class colors. Music was by the fidelity orchestra of Worcester.

Members of the Danielson Sunday school will have their annual picnic next Tuesday at Wildwood park. On Wednesday members of the Congregational and Methodist Sunday schools will have their annual picnic at Roseland park in Woodstock.

Motor cars sporting either Harvard or Yale colors ran through the southward bound during Friday forenoon and the early hours of the afternoon, headed for the boat race on the Thames at New London. Returning, the first of these cars passed through the city, headed for Massachusetts points during the early evening.

Rhode Island is going wholeheartedly at its program of improving the state highway known as the Danielson pike and coming to the Connecticut line at Little Rock, five miles east of here, work planned for this season will put this route in splendid condition to within two miles of the Connecticut border. With the plans of the Connecticut highway department to build eastward this year from a point two miles east of here to the Rhode Island line this short route to Providence will be one of the most popular in this section of New England and will handle a stream of traffic such as it has never known before, though it was a popular stage coach route for nearly 100 years, the direct one from Hartford to Providence.

In the very best of condition from Hartford avenue, in Providence, to North Scituate, and this year is renewing miles more of broken down state highway. At Dolly Cole's hill in Foster curves are being taken out of the mile long climb, the level of the road raised at Hopkins' Mills and a cut lowered five feet near the school house at that place. With this route between Danielson and Providence completed, the Rhode Island capital will be but 45 minutes away by motor car.

At a convention banquet of men in the drug trade held this week at the Hotel Griswold at Eastern Point, A. P. Woodward of this place was very much surprised when a friend introduced him to the president of the Woodward Drug company of Boston. "I am very pleased to meet you, Mr. Woodward," the Boston man said. "I was born in your town—Danielson, Conn."

The man was James P. Phinzer, now at the head of one of the largest drug concerns in New England.

Friday at 3 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Dowe, North Main street, a funeral service was conducted by Rev. Albert Jenson for Ernest E. Clark, who died at South Shelsford, Mass. The funeral services were private. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The annual ladies' day outing of the Windham County Congregational Ministers association is to be held at Storrs next Tuesday and churches in this part of the county will be represented at the meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. John Pratt of Brooklyn are leaving today for California and during the period from July 1 to 8 will represent the Congregational churches of this county at the biennial session of the national council at Los Angeles.

The Danielson Building and Loan association has a drive underway to gain new members during the period from July 1, when a new series of shares will be opened. The association organized several years ago has contributed materially to the upbuilding of Danielson, which has grown so as to attract attention from residents of many sections of eastern Connecticut. The association always has more applications for loans than it can fill, so the larger its membership the greater good for Danielson.

"Quality considered, automobile tires were never so cheap as they are today." This statement was made on Friday by a man who discussed the tire business, which makes possible the success of the tire fabric business, on which Killbuck depends in large measure for its prosperity. The low prices at which standard makes of tires are now being offered is helping create a new tremendous demand for them and it is expected that this soon will be reflected in greater activity at the tire fabric plants in this territory.

Another week has rolled around without bringing any decision from the public utility commission relative to granting permits to bus lines to continue operation in this territory. The hearing was held at Putnam a month ago. In the meantime the buses and trolleys continue to operate upon the same schedules that have been in effect for months, with the buses getting the bulk of the business done in the territory.

Today (Saturday) is the last full day for the Danielson Supply company at Camp Stevens. The command will leave for home Sunday morning and is expected to arrive here about noon or soon thereafter.

William T. Thayer of Hartford is to be the speaker at the morning service at the Baptist church.

Captain A. P. Woodward will act as marshal when members of Moriah lodge attend service at the Congregational church Sunday morning, in observance of St. John's day.

Mrs. H. C. Alwood will have the members of the Fortnightly club at her home for a meeting Tuesday. This is to be the last meeting of the organization until early fall.

Commencement week of Putnam high school came to a close Friday night with the reception to the members of the graduating class and dance, which were held in Union hall. In spite of the excessively warm weather the attendance was large, and the affair a brilliant success. For the occasion the hall had been attractively decorated. A canopy of gold and purple, the class colors, hung over the center of the room, and streamers of the same color fell from all sides of the hall. Star streamers covered the windows in the hall, and also were draped from the platform upon which the orchestra sat. The platform was also so backed with palm, and the streamers and class motto had a prominent position. The reception began at 8 o'clock and members of the graduating class, and faculty members and wives were in the receiving line. At 9 o'clock the grand march formed, led by Francis Murphy, class president, and Helen Thompson, class secretary. The second couple was Jeanette Gilbert, class treasurer, and Robert Arnold, the vice president. After this a dance order of 18 numbers was danced, and it was well after midnight when the festivities of the class of 1921 came to a close. Patronesses at the reception were Mrs. William Macdonald, Mrs. Edward H.
